Senior Flagpole Fund Swelling To $550 Mark

Sixty-five Foot Pole To Be Gift of 1935 Graduating Class

$268 NEEDED MARCH 1

Contributors' Names To Be Put on Bronze Plaque
at Shaft's Base

Senior councilmen are pushing forward today in their drive to raise $550 to purchase a flagpole for presentation to the University as a gift in remembrance of the 1934-35 Senior Class.

Constructed of copper bearing none-rust steel, 8 1/2 inches in diameter at its base, the pole will tower 65 feet. Located in the center of the yard, the pole will be mounted on a 10-foot square bronze base, around which will be a concrete seat.

All May Contribute

A twenty-four inch wing spread eagle will be placed at the top of the pole, which will rise above Corcoran Hall. Names of the donors to the fund will be engraved on the bronze base.

At least one dollar from every senior will be asked in order to raise casting, shipping and erecting costs which total $550. Contributions, however, are not restricted to seniors; anyone may donate to the fund. Already several organizations have voted to contribute as a group.

$268 Needed Now

It will be necessary to raise $268 of the total cost by March 1. Walter Rhinehart, president of the Senior Council, stated yesterday. This amount must be paid before the manufacturer will begin casting of the pole.

Donations may be made to Rhinehart, James G. Gillis, of the Senior Council, or to any of the contributors. Those and the schools they represent on the Senior Council are Amanda Chittum, Columbian; Ralph Boyer, Pharmacy; Helen Brown, Education; Bernard Fagelson, Law; Andrew Freeman, Engineering; Vernon Goodrich, Fine Arts; Hazel Haynes, Library Science; Fred Joss, Government; and Joseph Panzarella, Medical.

Students who wish to mail their contributions should fill out the blank form on page 6 and mail it with their remittances.

"Little Congress" Discussion Begins

Pierson Asks Interested
Students to Attend
Meeting Tomorrow

The feasibility of a Student Union designed to stimulate interest in national politics will be discussed by students interested in the project tomorrow at 8:15 p. m. in Corcoran 12.

The proposed Student Union, suggested two weeks ago by Ted Pierson, will be discussed from all angles to determine whether or not such an organization would benefit the University and its students. Pierson asks that all students who have any ideas whatsoever on the subject be at the meeting so that definite action may be taken.

Models National Congress

Pierson's plan of the Student Union, more popularly known as the "Little Congress," calls for a set-up patterned, as far as practical, after the national Congress. Senators would be elected by students registered in the University from the various states, and representative would also be elected for every 50 students registered from each state. The president and the vice president would be elected from the student body at large.

Parties to Be Formed

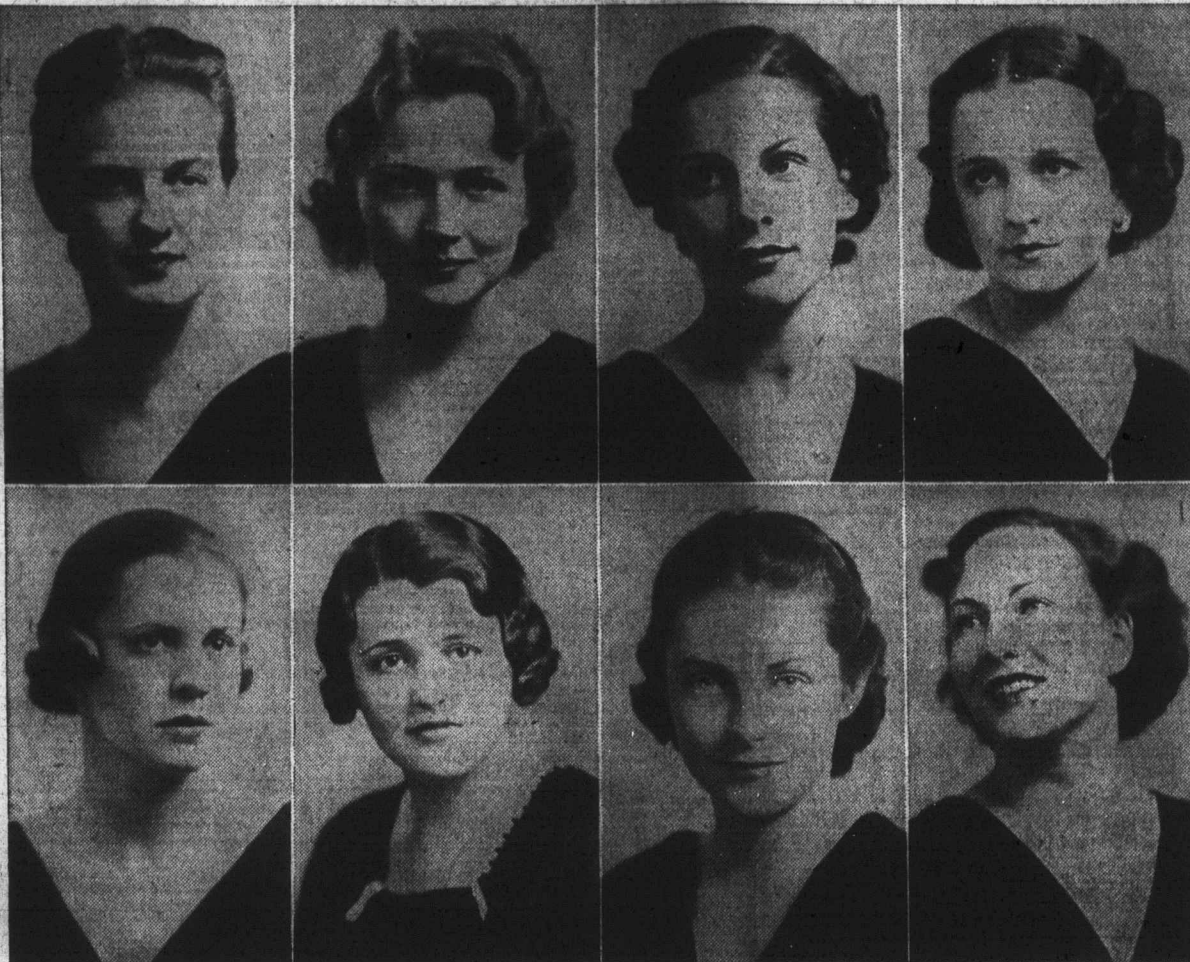

In order to carry forward the election plan, two or three political parties would probably be formed. Conventions would be called for the various organizations, and candidates chosen. The candidates so named would then campaign for election from the student body.

It has been further suggested that discussion from the floor of the "Little Congress," providing it materializes, be broadcast over a nation-wide radio hook-up as a special feature of the School of Government.

Marvin To Give Opening
Address at Convention

President Marvin will give the address of welcome at the convention of the American Association of Junior Colleges, Saturday morning at the Mayflower Hotel.

Sororities Enter Eight in Cherry Tree Beauty Contest

These women have been entered in the yearbook's annual beauty contest by their sororities. Their pictures, among others, will be sent to MacClelland Barclay, famous illustrator, for judging. They are, left to right, top row: Margaret Wadsworth, Alice Moon, Jean Kreiger, and Dora Ramirez d'Arellano. Bottom row: Martha Talley, Katherine Murphy, Sue Slater, and Louise Rex.

Hatchet Sponsors New Social List For Campus Aid

Daily Posting of Social Events on Special Register
Begins Monday

Discontinuance of the Student Council Social Calendar and the numerous crowded dates coming in the spring caused the Board of Editors of The Hatchet Sunday to decide to inaugurate a social events register.

Beginning next Monday notices of events submitted by organizations will be posted daily on the bulletin board on the second floor of the publications building.

Organizations Register

Representatives of organizations who wish events registered should fill out the blank on page 2 and mail it to the Sports Register Editor, The University Hatchet, 2016 H St., N. W., or give the information to one of the committee members.

It is not compulsory that events be registered, and no action will be taken against organizations not submitting dates of social events. The Hatchet has no interest in the matter other than that of service, according to a statement made Sunday by James Haley, editor.

"Closed" Dates Listed

Dates for events of general interest which are designated "closed" by the Student Council will be indicated on the register.

Eleanor Heller, who has been appointed social events register editor, will be assisted by Jane Harrison, Beulah Kosters, Ethel Nelson, Fred Stevenson, and Verna Volz.

Editor of Journal

Dr. Graham, who is outstanding in the field of tuberculosis, is editor of The Journal of Thoracic Surgery. He has made a survey in teaching medical surgery and was the winner of the Gross Prize

Gusack, Volz, Chittum, Bryant Danzansky In "Goodbye Again"

Adele Gusack, Verna Volz, Amanda Chittum, Joe Danzansky, and Deane Bryant will be featured in Cue and Curtains' next comedy, "Goodbye Again," is the announcement of the club's production board.

The play will be presented on March 14 and 15 at the Wardman Park Theater, and is being directed by Harold A. Weinberger.

Verna Volz is the newest of the quintette, but will surely be remembered as the feather-brained Mrs. Ritter of "The Torch-Bearers."

Adele Gusack will be remembered as the lead in several Cue and Curtains comedies, notably as one of the mad Rimplegians in last year's "Three-Cornered Moon."

Then, of course, Joe Danzansky has been romping around G. W. stages for years and years.

Dean Bryant made his debut as Mr. Spindler of "The Torch-Bearers."

These five, along with six others, some veterans and some newcomers, are going to have to carry the responsibility of putting "Goodbye Again" over with the customary bang.

Others chosen at the tryouts held last week were Irving Grodstein, Harold P. Mullin, Hamilton Coit, Berry Simpson, and Jeanne Bateman.

"Goodbye Again," we are told, is a deft and sophisticated comedy, having to do with the problems of a high-strung young author on a lecture tour. In Cleveland he meets with an old sweetheart of his college days who imagines herself to be the repressed heroine of one of his exotic novels. Things get complicated when her husband, of all people, gets tangled up in the hilarious mess.

Buff Cagers End Home Card With Temple Thursday

Fast Owls Meet Colonials
at Tech; Players Recovered From Slump

By Sid Carroll
Temple University, third in the Eastern intercollegiate league, opposes the Colonials Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the Tech High gym.

Only one more game remains on the G. W. schedule, that with Geneva next week, away.

Temple is one of the strangest clubs yet to be met by George Washington on the basketball floor this season. It is strange in the fact that it, like G. W., plays very inconsistently. One night it will go like a house afire and the next will fold up like last week's wash.

It has several star performers in the personage of "Red" Rosan, guard; "Pete" Fox, forward; and Jim Brown, who alternates at guard and forward. Dave Smucker, all-American fullback, also sees action quite often.

Rosan Outstanding
The Owls will present one of the outstanding players in Eastern collegiate circles in Rosan. Last season he led the scorers in the Eastern intercollegiate conference.

Temple lost to West Virginia by a big score at Morgantown, but beat the Mountaineers by an equally large score in a return game at Philadelphia. Some might lay the former defeat to the fact that Rosan did not play.

The Philadelphians handed Indiana, now-second in the Big Ten, a 22-6 score.

Address By Lippman, Honorary Presentations To Feature Convocation

"World Builder"
To Be Broadcast
Within Ten Days

"The World Builder," student radio program, will be broadcast in a week or ten days, is the announcement of Prof. Douglas Belmont, director of the program.

Edmund Ziman, law school student and author of the book and lyrics of last year's Troubadour show, has been placed in charge of all music and sound effects. The principal musical score is an African chant, based on authentic words and music taken from a native ballad.

The cast of students, headed by James Kinsella, John Coggins, and Jeanne Bateman, has been steadily rehearsing, both at the University and before the microphone at station WMAL.

Baltimore Downed By Fast Passing; G. W. Wins, 50-37

Goldfaden Continues
Streak to Top Scorers
With 15 Points

After battling furiously in the first half to maintain a 21-14 lead, a smooth Colonial outfit turned on the steam in the second half to smother a desperate Baltimore team, 50 to 37 last night in the George Washington gym.

Ben Goldfaden opened the scoring with two baskets in the first three minutes but Howell made a foul shot and the game was five minutes old before Freedman broke the log for Baltimore with a basket on a tip-off play. After that baskets came quickly with Howell and Goldfaden supplying the bulk of the scoring.

In the second half G. W. came out fighting and quickly ran up a 32 to 18 lead in five minutes. Baltimore rallied and held G. W. to a 38-28 advantage midway of the second half. At this point Goldfaden scored four points and Leemans scored two to clinch the game for the Buff. The second team finished the game.

The Baltimore five seemed baffled by the clever ball-handling of the Logan-coached team which worked the ball in nicely around the basket and shot effectively from close range. Not in its best form has the Buff and Blue quint played the heads-up, smart ball it exhibited last night.

Goldfaden held tight to his scoring laurels by hooping 15 points. Howell scored for the Buff. Trobat led the visitors' parade with five field goals and three foul shots. Dan Freedman was next with ten points.

New Republic, N. Y.
World, Herald-Tribune

Walter Linoman, well-known journalist and author, will give the address at mid-winter Convocation Friday at 8 p. m. in Constitution Hall.

Recognition of the contribution of the press to education and the conferring of honorary degrees upon six representative newspaper writers in addition to Mr. Lippman will also feature the convocation.

Is Experienced Journalist

Mr. Lippman's journalistic experience includes work as an associate editor of The New Republic, a special writer for The New York World, and more recently a special writer for The New York Herald Tribune. His interpretations of world events in these capacities have been widely recognized for their authoritativeness and significance. Through his books, "Liberty and the News" and "Public Opinion," he was among the first to focus attention upon the importance of the press as a force in contemporary life.

The other six recipients of honorary degrees will be Urie Bell, of The Louisville Courier-Journal; Fred Essary, of The Baltimore Sun; Jay Hayden, of The Detroit News; Charles G. Ross, of The St. Louis Post-Dispatch; Carr V. Van Ande, managing editor of The New York Times from 1904 to 1908; and Theodore Wallen, of The New York Herald-Tribune.

130 Degrees Conferred

In addition to these honorary degrees, approximately 130 degrees and certificates will be conferred upon graduates of various schools of the University.

President Marvin will deliver the charge to the graduates after they have received their degrees, and the Rev. Dr. Oliver Hart, rector of the St. John's Church, Lafayette Square, will give the invocation and benediction.

Members of the graduating class may obtain academic costumes in the basement lounge of Constitution Hall after 6 p. m. Friday. Candidates for degrees will carry the appropriate hoods which will be furnished when caps and gowns are given out. Dramatic Groups Merge Campaign

Combined Sales to Be Held by Troubadours, Cue and Curtains

Troubadours and Cue and Curtains have combined their sales campaigns into one unit headed by Floyd Sparks. The enlarged and combined business staffs of the two organizations will start their sales of season tickets this week.

The tickets to be sold are of the same type as those sold before this season's opening Cue and Curtains production. The price of the tickets is $2 and includes the coming Troubadour musical comedy and the two remaining Cue and Curtains plays.

Any Combination Allowed

The tickets may be used in any combination desired. All three units of the ticket may be used at once or separately, two tickets may be used for the Troubadour show and the third at one of the Cue and Curtains plays, or all three may be divided between the Cue and Curtains plays.

Those who already have purchased Cue and Curtains season tickets may use them for the Troubadour show also, under the present plan.

Floyd Sparks, business manager of both Cue and Curtains and Troubadours, has announced that all those interested in working with the staff should attend the meeting in the Cue and Curtains office, first floor of Building S, Wednesday night at 7 o'clock.

Classes Suspended for Washington's Birthday

All classes will be suspended February 23 because of the holiday. Classes will be resumed Saturday, and double cuts charged absent students.

The same prize for the period from Tuesday through Monday has been awarded to Platonia Pappas, representing the Law School. During this period she turned in $6.50.

The incomplete returns on the amount taken in during the drive, according to Richard Murphy, chairman, is $82.92.

Miss Spelman also won the prize for selling the most blossoms last year.

Similar sales are conducted by Masonic Clubs all over the country.

Exitus Acta Probat

Register Social Events

WHEN the Student Council abandoned the social calendar last year it ceased to perform in the capacity in which it had come to be most useful. With over 100 socially active organizations on the campus, damaging conflicts of functions are inevitable unless there is some system of central registration of such functions.

The need for a central listing of social functions becomes more acute as the school year wanes. While far from perfect, the Council's calendar in past years has helped considerably in keeping a line on organization social functions.

We understand that several members of the Council have for some time contemplated introducing a bill providing for reinstatement of the compulsory calendar, requiring posting of collateral to insure observance. However, nothing has yet been done in this connection.

The Hatchet does not intend to usurp the powers or privileges of the Student Council, but it does believe some kind of a social calendar should be maintained, this year.

Therefore, beginning next Monday The Hatchet will post on the second floor of the Publications Building, 2016 H st., a calendar of coming social events.

The Hatchet has no motive other than service in operating the calendar. Its use is not compulsory in any way; nothing will be done, said, or written against organizations which do not register their events on the calendar.

Cooperation, however, is necessary for the success of any enterprise like this. It is the hope of the Board of Editors that all social chairmen will take advantage of this service.

Services of the calendar will be available to every organization on the campus. Entries will be made daily and the list will be kept posted at all times for the information of anyone interested.

Students desiring to register events with the calendar may do so by filling out the blank found in an adjoining column, or by giving the information to a member of the Social Events Register Committee, or by depositing it in the box provided for the purpose on the second floor of the Publications building.

Our First Patron

EXITUS ACTA PROBAT—the end justifies the means—ancestral motto of the family of George Washington, was adopted as the official motto of the University Hatchet three weeks ago. For centuries it rested upon the Washington coat-of-arms. It served George Washington, himself, as his personal motto. Yet in spite of its relationship with the Washingtonian tradition it has a singular and peculiar importance in relation to our modern University.

George Washington was interested in education and the formation of universities to train the future leaders of the new republic. He gave financial support to more than one school of collegiate grade. As a result of this attitude, a number of colleges and universities have identified themselves with the tradition of Washington, but it is safe to say that no school is as closely identified with George Washington and his traditions as is our own.

Our informal campus traditions may be criticized on the basis that they rest more upon Parson Weem's delineation of Washington rather than his real self. It was, however, partially in an attempt to emphasize our connection with Washington, the real and mature, that exitus acta probat, a phrase that played no little part in the character of the first President, was adopted by The Hatchet.

With his ambitions for educational institutions, George Washington had certain educational ideals. One was the idea of a great university in the newly planned nation's capital. It was to further this conception that he provided in his will for the founding of our own school, which entered into activity in 1822.

A second ideal of Washington's was that emphasis should be placed by already existing institutions upon public service. The government of the country would need trained men to run it. There must be men willing to devote their entire lives to the civil service of their country.

Our University appears at this time to be closer to becoming a truly great university than ever before. In the matter of preparing men for public service, not a university in the entire country has given as many graduates into one form or another of governmental work. But although we are approaching the conception of Washington in these things, do we approach it in everything?

The name of George Washington which we bear sheds upon us a certain amount of light. Do we absorb the light like some black substance or do we reflect it back with undiminished brilliance?

Next Friday is Washington's birthday anniversary which the students of George Washington University will celebrate, ironically enough, by remaining away from school. How far have we progressed towards the ideal university of Washington since the Bicentennial of his birth? How far have we progressed since our founders?

Law School Laments

EVERY day a number of students in the Law School, especially those attending afternoon classes, complain—most of them in no uncertain or ambiguous terms—on one or more of the following counts: (1) Lack of facilities for hanging wraps during class; (2) Irregularity of the bells; and (3) Lack of sufficient phone facilities.

We admit that these inconveniences are "trivial", that they are not of any great importance in the running of a good and successful law school. But we also contend that their very triviality is all the more reason why they should be remedied, not tolerated.

In most of the afternoon law class, faculties are not provided for even one-fourth of the students' wraps.

In Constitutional Law there are 21 coat hooks for 150 students; there is not a single vacant seat; window sills take care of a few coats and the rest are piled on the floor in piles sometimes four feet high.

In Evidence there are 45 coat hooks for 200 students. In this class students pile their coats on several small tables in front of Judge Latimer's "bench" in stacks so high that he can scarcely see or be seen.

Conditions are just as bad in this respect in Real Property II, Equity 11 and a number of other classes.

For a few dollars and one day's work, the cloak-hanging facilities of the Law School could be doubled.

Irregularity of the bells handicaps professors and students alike. The bells have been ringing anywhere from 10 minutes fast to 15 minutes slow all year.

When the system is slow, as it usually is, the last minutes of each hour are practically ruined by noise made by students departing from other parts of the building and by automobile horns sounding in the street.

If the electric system cannot be improved why not let some student who is going to school on FERA funds keep time and ring the bells when they're supposed to ring?

As many as 25 law students have been seen at one time "in line" to make phone calls between "hours". Most of them soon get discouraged and go away. Of course the phone company wouldn't put in 25 phones. But we do believe the phone company would, if requested to do so, put another phone in Stockton Hall at no cost to the University.

JUST BETWEEN US

Flagpole More Than Mere Class Present
*Peace Poll Vote Proves G. W.
Typical Institution.*

THE gift of the seniors of 1935 to the University will be a flagpole, but it will be more than a flagpole and more than a gift. When the selection of the form of the gift was before the Senior Council, the president of the class suggested that they embody one of the long-cherished projects of the president of the University.

The collection of $500 will make possible the erection on campus of a feature that will in time become the center of the many festivities of which our Yard is the scene.

If it seems ludicrous that a flagpole should become a tradition center, a recollection of the Fiesta each year, of the annual crowning of the queen, of the frequent pep rallies in the fall, and of the popular and already storied outdoor class night in June, will dispel the idea of humor.

The fact that the members of the class of 1935 will establish the precedent of leaving a valuable and permanent memorial of their class entity to the school certainly justifies the fact that their present undertaking is a bit ambitious.

The successful completion of the plan will certainly make the graduates of '35 and those who join with them memorable with honor.

PROGRESSING from pole to poll, we arrive at the results of the recent Literary Digest one on peace. In case you have not seen the returns in this articulation of undergraduate opinion, we as a school turned out 72 percent of the opinion that the country could stay out of a war, 82 percent who would fight if the U. S. were invaded, 22 percent who would carry arms in our invasion of another nation, 49 percent who favor a first ranking navy and air force, 89 percent who advocate the national control of munitions, 87 percent who believe in conscription of labor and capital in the event of a war, but only 43 per cent who favor the League of Nations as an instrument for world peace.

In general, we held the same opinions which prevailed in the national consensus, only if you will permit the expression, more so. In other words, this school answered yes to those questions in which yes was the choice of all the institutions quizzed, but our percentages were higher in each case than the national tally.

It is not strange that our vote was thus typical. We are a typical school.

History Faculty Suggests Books

Professors Recommend Five Best 1934 Titles

AT the request of the University Library, members of the history department have each recommended what they believe to be the best book published in their respective fields during the past year.

EUROPEAN CIVILIZATION AND POLITICS SINCE 1815, by Erik Achorn, Harcourt, $5. Suggested by Dr. Lowell J. Ragatz, executive officer of the history department and specialist in modern European history. "European Civilization and Politics" is "a richly detailed and brilliantly integrated narrative, entertaining as well as informative."

AMERICA'S TRAGEDY, by J. T. Adams, Scribner, $3, was selected by Professor Wood Gray, specialist in American history. Adams' book is termed "a readable account of the causes and significance of sectionalism in American history. It is of interest to both the scholar and the general reader."

THE RENAISSANCE AND THE REFORMATION, by H. S. Lucas, Harper, $4. Dr. Elmer L. Kaysner, director of medieval, ancient, and renaissance history courses, recommends this work as "the best balanced synthesis of the period which has appeared in English. Particularly noteworthy are the selection of illustrations and the bibliography."

CONSTITUTIONAL HISTORY OF ENGLAND, by G. B. Adams, revised by R. L. Schuyler, Holt, $3. Nominated by Dr. George M. Churchill, professor of history and specialist in English history. In commenting upon

Akin to G. W.

THIS is the age of books. They rank in importance with the faculty. We rely more and more upon reading assignments in our classes. And yet our professors simply cannot assign the proper amount of collateral reading because of our crowded library situation. Property is expensive, but we are going ahead in full expectation going ahead in full expectation that some of our friends, private or corporate, must inevitably seize this opportunity of providing a structure and thereby amplifying many-fold the quality and extent of our education service.—From the 1934 report of the Chancellor of New York University.

his choice Dr. Churchill says that "Professor Schuyler has fortunately made no changes in the first 18 chapters; he has added chapters covering the period since 1920, the Irish Free State, and recent administrative developments. It is decidedly the best text we have."

THE TWO AMERICAS: AN INTERPRETATION, by Stephen Duggan, Scribner, $1.75. Professor A. Curtis Wilgus, associate professor of Hispanic-American history, considers this "one of the most thought-provoking books published during the year dealing with Latin America."

Women Lose Only Two Games Out of Eight in Triangular Meet

With six victories and two losses, the George Washington University women emerged successful from the triangular basketball meet with Hood and Goucher colleges held at Goucher last Saturday.

The seniors and freshmen won both of their games, the former with a score of 42-12 over Goucher and 24-12 over Hood. The sophomores and juniors were not as successful with their games, each resulting in one victory and one loss. The juniors had a score of 12-11 over Hood, but lost to Goucher, 20-14; while the sophomores were victorious over Goucher, 18-12, but were conquered by Hood, 17-8.

Following the games, which were played at Western High School in Baltimore, the Goucher women were hostesses at a dinner in honor of the players.

Pres. Marvin Gives Reception

February Graduates and Their Parents Invited For First Time

Members of the February graduating class in all schools, including the Junior College, will be honored by President Marvin Thursday when they and their parents will be his guests at a reception to be given at the Washington Club, 1701 K Street, from 4 to 6 p. m.

Similar functions have been given in the past for the classes graduating in the spring, but this is the first time such an honor has been accorded to midwinter graduates. It is planned that the custom will be made an annual one.

This action is directly in line with efforts being made by the Senior Council to aid in the development of more unified class spirit among seniors, according to Vernon Goodrich, social chairman of the Senior Council.

In addition to the invitation mailed separately to his parents, each candidate for graduation is entitled to bring one guest on his own invitation. Refreshments will be served and there will be dancing.

The deans of all colleges, members of the Board of Trustees, and members of the Senior Council will be guests of honor.

"Red" Nichols' Pennies Have Hotel, Theater, Recording Fame

To Play

"Red" Nichols, who has been selected by the Inter-Fraternity Council to provide the music at the annual Interfraternity Prom March 1 at the Willard Hotel.

"Red" Nichols and his nationally known "Pennies" band recently selected to play for the 1935 Interfraternity Prom to be held at the Willard Hotel March 1, is popular with both radio and theatre fans.

In the theatre, "Red" conducted the orchestrations of George Gershwin's Broadway productions, "Strike Up the Band" and "Girl Crazy". He also appeared in "Joe Cook's", "Rain or Shine", in the "Vanities", and in John Murray Anderson's "Almanac".

Nichols and his orchestra have played at the Hollywood Restaurant, the New Yorker Hotel, and the Central Park Hotel in New York; the Ritz-Carlton, Atlantic City; Lowry Hotel, St. Paul; the Muehlbach, Kansas City; and "Fatty" Arbuckle's Plantation, Culver City, Calif.

The orchestra is especially well-known to radio audiences of the Middle West. His opening signature, "A Torrid Trumpet Wailing to the Four Winds", interpolated with the theme song, "The Wall of the Wind", has become familiar to all radio fans.

The "Pennies" first won renown, almost a decade ago, through their extensive recordings. Many of these recordings are still being used in Europe, and in this country a current revival is bringing back into popular favor a number of "Red" Nichols' recordings made eight years ago.

Tau Epsilon Phi Host At Jubilee

The George Washington chapter of Tau Epsilon Phi fraternity will be host from February 21 through February 23, to delegates of the Pennsylvania, Maryland, and North Carolina chapters of the fraternity at their second annual jubilee.

Twenty-six men from the four chapters represented will be initiated Saturday afternoon. Following the initiation a formal banquet will be held at the Mayflower.

Light Opera Is Broadcast Topic Of Miss Cooper

Talk Will Be Given Over University Radio Forum Thursday

Coincident with the presentation in Washington this week of a series of Gilbert and Sullivan light operas, Miss Anna P. Cooper, assistant professor of English, will discuss "The Savoy Operas" on the University Radio Forum Thursday.

The productions of Gilbert and Sullivan are known as "The Savoy Operas" because they have been produced in the Savoy Theater, London, since the first Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "Trial by Jury," was produced by the D'Oyly Carte company which is playing in Washington this week.

Rise to Fame

Miss Cooper will discuss the rise of Gilbert and Sullivan to light opera fame as well as their plays. The talk will be broadcast over Station WMAL at 8:30 p. m.

Last Thursday Dr. Herman H. Kaveler, professor of chemistry, spoke on "Chemistry in the New Deal," stressing the fact that even in the depression years the chemical industry was not affected since substitution of products had to be made. "The depression witnessed the development of a new and valuable synthetic substitute for rubber in the product called 'DuPrene,'" he said.

No Individual Science

"Today we have come to realize that there is too little science concerned with the citizen as an individual," he continued.

Panhel Lessens Requirements for Employed Women

Only Six Hours of Work Required for Sorority Membership

Only six semester hours of work will be required for initiation of employed women into sororities after April 3, when a constitutional amendment passed by the Panhellenic Association at its meeting last Tuesday will go into effect.

According to another provision of the amendment, credits in physical education will not be counted toward the nine hours that day students must have in order to be initiated.

Not Effective Immediately
The amendment will not go into effect immediately because of a provision of the constitution that no amendment may become effective until the second regular meeting of the Association after its passage. The amendment was passed following the rejection of the one proposed at the previous meeting, which had been tabled for discussion last week.

New Motion Different
The motion which was finally accepted differs from the former one in the mention which it makes of physical education credits. These credits were not touched upon in the original draft, and might have been included in the nine hours required of day students.

The provision which requires a "C" average on all work taken the semester previous to initiation is embodied in the new clause as in the one now in effect.

IT was one of those rough and tumble affairs likely to be found in the gym any afternoon when the basketball team is on the road and those girls that trip the light fantastic before peeping, peering eyes in rhythmic dancing have vacated. It was an attempt at basketball, crude surely, but an attempt.

Howls of laughter from the players and scattered sideliners mark the efforts of the "bone crushers" to get into shape for their coming campaign. Before long the pansies, daisies, violets, and rosebuds will make their debut in basketball for the second year.

Begun last season in an effort to give the football players a little off-season exercise to keep them in shape, the idea caught like wild-fire, and those that saw one of the affairs never missed one from that time on.

On this particular afternoon it was a mixture of football players, several members of the frosh out for a workout, and a sprinkling of cub gridders participating, at first, in a rather mild way. A handful witnessed the spectacle. A brave soul is drafted from the audience to referee.

The whistle blows and the game is on. And what a game! From the first second the well-meaning referee must doubt his sanity for offering to make such a sacrifice. He is virtually snowed under an avalanche that sees Deming, Rathjen, Clark, Breazal, Pettit, and Kolker lunge for the ball at the same time in a manner never quite equaled on any basketball floor.

Up and down the floor thunders the caravan. Forward passes, body blocks, and flying tackles are the order of the day. Fenion and Liddicoat of the freshman five quickly lose their educated form and become one of the racing, howling pack that runs from one basket to the other like rampaging elephants. Self preservation is forgotten in the mad scramble.

And they loved it! They actually loved it. They hollered and whooped and laughed until exhaustion forced them to the bench after an hour of such perfectly grand foolishness. In that time the grand total of eight baskets was scored. In all my life of press-coopering it I had never gotten an idea of what it meant to these boys to get back in action with their bodies in contact where they let themselves go and forget everything.

Most of them are itching for spring practice this very minute!

Colonials Meet Temple Thursday

its worst defeat of the season the night after G. W. took a beating from the Hoosiers. The margin of defeat was 20 points. The Owls also came within one point of defeating Purdue, leader of the Big Ten fives. A shot from the middle of the floor in the closing seconds of play spelled victory for the Boilermakers.

However, Temple lost to City College by ten points after the Colonials had turned back the New Yorkers by eleven.

Buff Inconsistent

George Washington has been equally an in-and-out team. After rising to the heights to beat City College, it lost to the little heard of Davis-Elkins club. After losing to Long Island, the Colonials returned to form the next night and beat a strong St. John's team.

The game may turn into a one-sided affair, if either team has an off night, and it may be one of the most closely contested affairs this season, if both have an off night or if both are going to town.

Last year Temple licked the Buff and Blue 49-22 at Philadelphia.

Logan Leaves Friday for Sarasota To Take Up Duties With Red Sox

Roland Logan, assistant football and basketball coach and trainer, packs his bags, loads his wife and two kiddies into the family car and sets sail for new and bigger things this week. Friday morning, bright and early, the Logan family starts for Sarasota, Florida, where Roland takes up his new duties as trainer of Tom Yawkey's prospective Boston Red Sox, March 1.

He plans to return to G. W. in the fall at the close of the American League season, September 29. Unless the Red Sox win the pennant and go into the World Series, which would just about make Roland's year a perfect success, he will report here early in the first week of October. If the Sox go into the Series, Logan will return October 15.

Rifle Team Engages Maryland Targetmen

G. W. rifers will journey out to College Park, Md., Saturday afternoon to fire a shoulder-to-shoulder match with the Terrapin targetmen in a league match. This "get together" will be the first shoulder-to-shoulder league match this year for the Buff and Blue snipers. The Georgetown and V. M. I. league matches were fired via "Western Union".

G. W. got off to a good start in league matches by winning its telegraphic match with Georgetown by a score of 1861 to 1311. This match with Georgetown was fired February ary 9, but official computations were just released this week by the National Rifle Association.

Better Last Score

With the Georgetown victory in the bag, Parson's proteges swung into their second league match of the year Friday evening when they fired a telegraphic match with V. M. I. Although the V. M. I. scores will not be officially announced by the National Rifle Association until next week, there was a ray of hope in the fact that the G. W. team score was eight points higher than that of the Hoyas match last week.

The men firing the V. M. I. match and their position totals were: Neal, 276; Miller, 276; Cross, 274; Turnbull, 273; Mulligan, 271; Free, 268; Hornbrook, 265; Martin, 261; Gebhard, 255; and Allen, 250. The five high position totals will count in the official N. R. A. tabulations.

Saturday afternoon eight Penn State rifers engaged the G. W. target snipers in a shoulder-to-shoulder non-league match on the local range. This match, which was fired under strict N. R. A. rules with a twelve-minute time limit, was so closely contested that the results will be forwarded to N. R. A. officials for an official check-up to determine the victor. Unofficial match results returned the Penn State team the victor by a score of 1333 to 1331. Although unofficial, the loss was the first of the season sustained by the Parson-coached men.

Team Totals

The unofficial position totals of the five high men of each school were:

G. W.	Penn State
Turnbull.....274	Wadman.....273
Neal.....276	Massey.....270
Free.....268	Sollenberger...268
Mulligan.....271	Hill.....263
Hornbrook.....265	Rorabaugh.....261
Total.....1331	Total.....1333

Other G. W. men shooting their scores were: Miller, 267; Cross, 256; and Martin, 247.

Ghormley, Carter Set New Records As Tankers Lose

Meet Lafayette Friday at Easton, Pa.; Jays Overcome Lead

Despite two new records by Captain Dyer Ghormley and Beverly Carter, the Colonial swimmers went down to a 36-32 defeat before Johns Hopkins University Saturday night at the Shoreham pool.

Ghormley, who had just won the fancy diving, hung up a new pool and D. C. A. A. U. record in the 200-yard breast stroke with a time of 2:44.6.

Carter loafed through to a first in the 220-yard freestyle, but stepped it up in the 440 to simulate his captain's act to make another pool and D. C. A. A. U. record. His new record of 5:34.2 superceded by over ten seconds the old one of 5:46. Neither of the record breakers were pushed and won as they pleased.

Catchings Gets Second
Catchings helped things along by following Carter to the finish in both the 220 and 440. In the 50-yard freestyle Vartia and Vonder Brugge filed in behind Adler of Johns Hopkins, with Vonder Brugge getting third also in the 100. Hain, showing the effects of his recent cold, took a third in the backstroke.

The Baltimore school had a better balanced team, but the early lead kept George Washington in the running through the last event. Then, with the Colonials leading by one point, Ghormley, Catchings, Vartia, and Carter were unable to match the Johns Hopkins men.

In the other meet, run off concurrently with the varsity, Central High School easily took the measure of the Hopkins freshmen.

Meet Lafayette

This week the team goes to Easton, Pa., where it encounters its most formidable opponent, Lafayette.

Freshman Five Meets Western In Final Today

The Colonial yearlings close their basketball campaign today tangling with a much improved Western High five in the H street gym at 3:30.

Since the first meeting of the two clubs, which the yearlings won handily, the Georgetowners have come along fast and finished second in the inter-high series. This year the Westerners have risen from comparative obscurity to a top notch place in scholastic competition.

Western will be under full power to avenge the early season setback and will be aided by confidence, having placed two men on the all-high team.

Last week the freshmen had their promising winning streak blasted from under them when the Quantic Marines nosed them out, 44-43, in a pot shooting affair that saw Laverne Liddicoat score 18 points. The game was a free scoring fracas, as the score indicates, and was played in a most unorthodox manner, most of the scores being made from mid-court.

Ghormley Versatile
The most versatile man on the George Washington swimming team seems to be Captain Dyer Ghormley. In the meet Saturday, he not only swam the breast stroke, in which he stands out in the East, but free styled the 100 in the relay and won the fancy diving by over twenty points.

Nodaks Lead
North Dakota University is leading the North Central Basketball Conference with seven wins and no losses. State is in second place having six victories and no defeats.

Phi Sigs Tie S. M. S. For Bowling Honors

By winning three games in the interfraternity bowling tourney, Phi Sigma Kappa jumped from second place to share leading honors in League B with Sigma Mu Sigma, last week's leader, who dropped a game to the Sigma Chi Saturday night at the Rendezvous Alley. Theta Upsilon Omega and Acacia teams are tied for first place in League A. Getting off to a flying start, the Phi Sig team gained a lead over Sigma Phi Epsilon which was not overtaken at any time during the entire match, and their efforts in the pinches assured them a tie for leading honors.

Acacia Pulls Up

Tied for first place in League A and rolling for the section lead, Acacia and Kappa Sigma battled in the most crucial match of the newly organized tourney. With games standing at one all, the Acacia team produced a rally in the final game which was too strong for the Kappa Sigs. This victory over Kappa Sigma enabled the Acacia team to hold the top with Theta Upsilon Omega who had previously defeated Sigma Alpha Epsilon last Tuesday. Sigma Nu forfeited to the Delta Tau Delta team. In other games played, Kappa Alpha defeated Theta Delta Chi, and Sigma Mu Sigma turned back Sigma Chi.

Hoffman High Scorer

High scoring honors have somewhat changed since last week's play. Bowling 138 for one game, Carl Hoffman of Sigma Mu Sigma replaces Robert Jackson, Phi Sigma

Eight Submitted In Cherry Tree Beauty Contest

Four Freshmen; Others
Worthy of Competing to Be Entered

Eight women, four of them Freshmen, have been entered in the Cherry Tree's annual beauty contest by their respective sororities.

They are: Dora Ramirez d'Arelano, who won second honors in last year's contest, Phi Mu; Jean Kreiger, Sigma Kappa; Alice Moon, Zeta Tau Alpha; Katherine Murphy, Delta Zeta; Louise Rex, Alpha Delta Pi; Sue Slater, Chi Omega; Martha Talley, Pi Beta Phi, and Margaret Wadsworth, Kappa Delta.

Others to Be Chosen

In order to make this a more representative group of beautiful campus women, Casson's Studio and Henry W. Herzog, graduate manager of publications, will add portraits of both sorority and non-sorority women that they think should be entered in the competition.

All of these pictures will be sent to MacClelland Barclay, nationally known authority on women's beauty and a famous illustrator, for judging. He will pick the most beautiful woman from these pictures, as well as second and third choices.

The final date for all pictures has been set for March 2, the board of editors announces. Absolutely no pictures can be taken after this date. Until then, they can be taken at Casson's Studio for $2.50.

March 1 Deadline

John Busick, business manager, warns that March 1 is the last day to take advantage of the new installment plan of $2 down and the balance of $2 on May 15.

Point System Set For Qualification Of Council Head

Candidates Must Have Held 5 or 10-Point Activi- ties Position

Candidates for president of the student body must have participated in one of certain prescribed activities prior to election, according to a by-law passed by the Student Council at a special meeting last Thursday.

Setting forth an extra-curricular activity point system as a basis for qualifying nominees, the by-law requires that all candidates must have either directed or served as an assistant in a major activity. No restrictions were made as to the candidate's class enrollment or length of attendance at the University.

Like O. D. K. System

The system, patterned after that of Omicron Delta Kappa, makes it mandatory that candidates have earned points in at least one activity in either the 5 or 10-point positions. The chairman of the Co-op committee was added to the five-point group.

The proposed by-law, originally requiring 10 points, was amended when the Council decided that a too rigid requirement might eliminate well-qualified candidates, as well as limit candidacy to students who had participated in so many activities that they had become disinterested in campus problems.

Dr. Boggs Speaks To Medical Group

Dr. Thomas R. Boggs, associate professor of medicine at Johns Hopkins University and physician-in-chief of the Baltimore City Hospital, will deliver a lecture before the Smith-Reed-Russell Honor Medical Society today at 11 a. m. in Hall A of the Medical School Building. This is one of the series of lectures given about once a month at the meetings of the society.

Dr. Boggs' subject will be "Myocardic Infection of the Lung". He is noted as a medical educator, and is a consultant of the United States Veterans Bureau in this city. He is a Colonel in the United States Medical Reserve Corps, and was medical consultant in the air service during the World War.

Panzarella New Council Officer

Joseph Panzarella, representative of the Senior Class from Medical School, last week was elected vice president of the Senior Council.

Panzarella was elected to fill the place left vacant by Hazel Haynes, Library Science representative who graduated last semester.

Protestant Organizations Discuss Easter Meeting

Representative of all campus Protestant religious clubs will meet Thursday to present opinions of their organizations concerning a general student religious meeting at Easter.

Delegates from the Christian Science, Luther, Wesley, and Westminster organizations will come to a final decision at the meeting to be held at 8 p. m. in Columbian House.

Noted as the personal physician of President Wilson during the wartime years when the fate of the world rested on the Chief Executive's health, Dr. Sterling Ruffin is one of the most prominent of living graduates of the George Washington University Medical School.

In the course of Dr. Ruffin's practice he has had among his patients many prominent persons and high public officials. For many years he has been widely known as one of Washington's most able diagnosticians and consultants. Gentle and sympathetic, he inspires such confidence that his patients declare they forget their ills while he is calling on them.

Attended Columbian
While working in the Treasury Department, Dr. Ruffin attended the Columbian (now George Washington) Medical school at night, from which he graduated with honor in 1890. Besides actively practicing his profession in this city since 1893, he was a member of the George Washington Medical School faculty and physician-in-chief of the University's hospital for 22 years.

Some years ago in an interview with a reporter of a local paper Dr. Ruffin said that despite the fact there was a high percentage of doctors in Washington there was a great opportunity for young doctors, provided they study continuously and keep abreast of the latest medical developments.

In addition, he advised the young physician not to neglect the social side of his practice, for it is here that he gains a name for himself for the future, as long as he does not become a social butterfly. Apparently, from Dr. Ruffin's many accomplishments and great success, he has himself, throughout his forty-two years of practice constantly followed the advice he once gave the young doctor.

Stofberg Replaces Althen on Council

Ruth Critchfield Elected Secretary After Haynes' Resignation

Following the resignation of Alice Althen, Student Council representative from the School of Government, the Council Thursday named Charles Stofberg to fill the vacancy. Stofberg was nominated by Bernard Fagelson.

Stofberg is chairman of the interfraternity and sorority University scholarship committee and has served on both the Food Drive and the University Fiesta boards.

Critchfield Secretary
Ruth Critchfield, nominated by Eleanor Boehs, councilwoman from Junior College, was elected as secretary to the Council. Critchfield, women's athletic delegate, will fill the vacancy created last week by the resignation of Hazel Haynes.

Following a report on plans for High School Week by Machin Gardner, the Council heartily endorsed the movement in a resolution offered by Councilman James Edwards.

Gardner Speaks
Gardner told the Council that the success of the proposal within the next week depended largely on the cooperation of the 10 fraternities who have promised their active support.

"The University and local fraternities, according to our plans, will entertain 60 to 75 boys from 11 of 12 nearby high schools for a week-end," Gardner told the Council.

Overflow Crowd Hears Gamow's Talk on Physics

Laws of Gravity Fail, He Tells Audience of Scientists, Laymen

An overflow audience of scientists, professors, and students jammed Corcoran 39 Friday night to hear Dr. George Gamow, visiting professor of Nuclear Physics, deliver his first lecture in a series to be given on modern physics.

Dr. Gamow gave a demonstration of the "principle of uncertainty".

Mechanics Fail

"Because the Newtonian mechanics, built around the law of gravity, have failed to explain the behavior of the atom," Dr. Gamow said, "it has been necessary to construct an entire new mechanics in which the position of a moving object can only be approximated according to the laws of chance."

Corcoran 39 was not large enough to seat the crowd, including scientists from the District of Columbia, which wished to hear Dr. Gamow in his Washington debut. Extra chairs failed to accommodate all, and many were forced to sit on the floor.

Dr. Gamow is internationally known authority on nuclear physics. Talk on Uncertainty

Last night's lecture on "The Principle of Uncertainty" was designed in such a way that laymen as well as physicists could understand a description of the theory of wave mechanics, which has done much to explain the structure of the atom.

The schedule for the remaining lectures in the series is as follows: March 8, "The Atomic Nucleus"; March 22, "Artificial Transformations of Elements"; April 5, "The Structure of Stars"; and May 3, "Cosmic Rays".
